The invocation was offered by Reverend Eston Williams, pastor, Aley United Methodist Church, Kemp, as follows:

God of life and love and peace. We pray your blessings on these who have been elected to serve the people of Texas. We pray that each one might know how much you love them. We pray that each one might act with an eye to the future.

To that day, decades from now, when their grandchildren will bring their great grandchildren to this hallowed place. To that day when their grandchildren will proudly point to their picture in the portrait of the 77th Legislature. To that day when their grandchildren will say to their great grandchildren, "Your grandmother represented the people of Texas well."

"Your grandfather cared more about sound decisions than sound bites."

"Texas is a better place because your grandmother provided leadership in these halls."

"Our family is so proud of your grandfather!"

We ask this because we know that with an eye to that day in the future, each one will discover within themselves the wisdom to know and the power to do what is good for all the people of Texas. Amen.
